

DECLARES MEXICO WILL SIT TIGHT

FOREIGN MINISTER
ISSUES STATEMENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Senator Fall, of the special Mexican investigating committee is ready to report any time on the advisability of armed intervention by the United States into Mexico. Fall just back from the border had a long conference with Secretary Lansing. Meanwhile Mexico has not replied to Lansing's second note requesting release of Wm. O. Jenkins, American consular agent imprisoned at Puebla.

Another refusal to free Jenkins would not surprise the State Department.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 2.—The Mexican government has not changed its attitude in the Jenkins case. This statement was made today by Hilaro Menia, acting foreign minister, in an exclusive interview with the United Press.

"Mexico's position is the same as that stated in the recent note to the United States," said Menia.

"We outlined the facts as they are and they are unchanged. It is true relations are delicate but not so critical as to cause a break. I do not think we are beyond the possibility of an amicable settlement," Menia said he reserved his opinion on the last American note.

CONGRESS HEARS TREASURY DEPT.
REPORT ON CONDITION OF AFFAIRS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—A deficit of more than three billion dollars will show on the books of the government June 30, 1920, the close of the current fiscal year Secretary of Treasury Glass estimated in his annual report to Congress today. A deficit of one and a half billions looms for the next fiscal year, Glass also estimated. The figures given by Glass are an estimate or forecast of conditions which according to knowledge now in hand will be available in six months and a year and a half hence. Congress, however, will use them in repairing the tax laws as suggested by President Wilson and paring appropriations.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE READY TO
ACT TO RELIEVE SUGAR SITUATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The Department of Justice's plans for dealing with the sugar situation will be made known today. The plans were discussed at a conference early today between assistant Attorney General Ames and Willis Glasco, general counsel for the United States Sugar Equality board. A conference of sugar refiners which was to have opened here was postponed indefinitely.

CHARACTER WITNESSES APLENTY FOR LEIB

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—Thirty character witnesses arrived today for the trial of W. S. Leib accused of forging state tax receipts, to testify to the good reputation of the defendant. Among them included legislators, lawyers and prominent citizens of Schuylkill county awaited their turn to appear on the stand. The testimony today was expected to be much like yesterday when the defense will try to prove that Leib was not in Philadelphia at the time he is alleged to have turned over the tax receipts to Joseph E. Evans. A hotel registry was presented to show that Leib was in Harrisburg.

VESSEL STRIKES MINE AND IS LOST

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The American steamer Kerwood enroute to Hamburg struck a mine Monday on the coast of Holland according to advices to the State Department. No trace has been found of the vessel which belonged to the Kerr Shipping Company of New York.

SENATE WILL TAKE UP NEWBERRY CASE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The Senate today ordered an immediate investigation of the Ford-Newberry Senate election in Michigan in 1918.

CLARION MAN TO ENFORCE
PROHIBITION IN STATE

Former State Senator W. Wayne Hindman of Clarion who has a number of friends in this locality is to be appointed federal prohibition enforcement officer for Pennsylvania, according to the present understanding.

He has been recommended by Attorney General Palmer, and is expected in Washington on Friday to confer with the prohibition enforcement authorities of the Treasury Department.

Hindman was elected to the Senate in 1914 from the 28th district which is composed of Clarion, Forest, E. Cameron and Clinton counties in 1918 he was defeated for re-election.

Future Of U. M. W.
Of A. In Hands
Of Rank And File

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the U. M. W. of A. was held at the local offices of the organization late yesterday afternoon. While nothing was given out for publication it is understood that no official action was taken on the government offer of a fourteen per cent. increase and contrary to the expectation of the general public, the officials of District No. 2 apparently do not intend to lift their hands to further the desires of the government to have the offer accepted and give their official endorsement to "standing pat" and those who were looking to their superior officers for the much desired advice to go to work and earn wages are doomed to disappointment. This action is bound to bring about more or less discussion among the rank and file of the miners. Their interests are at stake and time will tell whether they are going to follow in the footsteps of their officers on this matter. There is much food for thought in this action, or rather lack of action. Many questions pop up.

What effect will the prolonged strike have on the membership of the United Mine Workers? That is the problem that is giving much concern to the union member and no doubt to union officials. With many mines already in operation and with some miners from union mines seeking employment in other communities at mines that are operating, most of them non-union, it is feared that there will be a defection in the ranks. This defection cannot be stopped but with every day of idleness will be increased.

The average miner is intensely loyal to his organization. He has seen it grow to a powerful organization until it has reached the peak of influence among labor organizations. He thoroughly believes in it. He has fought for it, bled for it, sacrificed for it every day of his life. It has been the means of correcting hundreds of evils of the old day. It has been the bulwark against corporate greed and capitalistic lust. Without it the miners lot today would be that of the steel workers whose twelve hour a day grind is one of the wonders of modern times.

In this crisis in the annals of unionized mine labor the miner should and will eventually act with a view to protecting his organization for future usefulness to himself. If he believes that every member of his organization will stick in the fight against the fourteen per cent. increase promulgated by the government, then in justice to his organization and its welfare as a united body he may remain away from the mines although by so doing he will array against him the forces of public sentiment and all other elements dependent on him for needed coal.

It is no secret that there are operators, and perhaps they are in the majority who hope that the miner will not accept the mandate of the government and will continue to hold out until the union organization is entirely disrupted by defection on the part of individuals. The hope that eventually the mine workers through their organization would bring about their own disruption has been nurtured so long by these operators that it has become a passion with them.

It would seem to be good business from the standpoint of organized labor to accept the government offer, return to work, regain the confidence and esteem of the public and by so doing keep their organization intact for future battles. Every miner must think for himself on this proposition always keeping in the mind the future welfare of the organization which has meant so much to him.

CRYSTAL SPRINGS LANDS
FINE BUCK

The deluxe hunting camp of the mountains landed a fine six point buck last evening just in time to have the fun of talking it over at the supper table while the Victrola was playing, the electric lights were shimmering and the orchestra was playing the Anvil Chorus. Our informant declares it to be one of the prize bucks of the year in weight and beauty. The joy over the killing of the buck was dimmed somewhat by the uncalled for and disgraceful act of one of the most popular members of the camp. This gentleman was standing on a stump meditating over his favorite passage of scripture when a beautiful eight point buck stepped out of the bushes nearby and bowed a how-de-do. Taking careless aim he fired once, he fired twice and the buck is still going. An eye witness to the affair reported the occurrence and in two jiffies, George M. Rosser was there with his lineoleum yardstick and a careful measurement, oldfoll measure, indicated the buck was just one hundred and eight inches from Bill Boyce when he fired the fatless shot. Bill knows better, now what an Anvil Chorus is.

BREAK OF RELATIONS WITH MEXICOJACK BOYLE OF DUBOIS INJURED
WHILE HUNTING

Jack Boyle was brought to the DuBois hospital yesterday at noon suffering from a severe gunshot wound in the left leg suffered while he was with a party of hunters in the mountains near Glenwood. The bullet went clear thru the foot and it is believed that two bones were broken. It is probable that Mr. Boyle will lose the use of a couple of toes, but otherwise will get all right.

Mr. Boyle along with a number of B. R. & P. men, had gone to the mountains on Monday to hunt deer. Yesterday morning the party of three started out and a deer was sighted. He was lost, however, in the underbrush and Mr. Boyle, whose rifle was cocked, threw the gun over his shoulder preparatory to climbing a tree to take a look over the country. In some manner the trigger caught and the gun went off, the bullet striking the left foot. The shot attracted the attention of the other members of the party, who hurried to the scene, believing that a deer had been shot. They found Mr. Boyle on the ground and suffering from the wound. The men in the party, being B. R. & P. employees were versed in first aid and immediately gave the wound attention. They then formed a stretcher by using their hunting coats and poles and the task of getting Mr. Boyle to the railroad was started. It was some what a difficult piece of work, as the hunters were two miles in the mountains and the going was tough at times, especially as Mr. Boyle is no lightweight. The railroad was reached without further mishap, however, and the Clearfield accommodation was flagged. Mr. Boyle was placed aboard and after the arrival of the train was taken to the DuBois hospital, where he was given attention. His condition last evening was very satisfactory.

E. W. HESS OFF TO ATTEND
COAL MINING INSTITUTE

A real treat will be enjoyed by our townsman, E. W. Hess, this evening, when he attends the thirty third annual meeting of the Coal Mining Institute of America, which meets at Pittsburgh for a two day session. Among the notable speakers will be R. Dawson Hall, Editor of the Coal Age, Dr. G. H. Ashley, State Geologist of Harrisburg, Dr. A. A. Hamerschlag, President of Carnegie Institute, and Dr. J. A. Brashers the grand old scientist of Pittsburgh, who is described on the program as the "Foremost Citizen of Pennsylvania."

It's A Great Place

Recently the writer was in Philadelphia on business, and in the course of the day met the Vice President of one of the largest paper manufacturing companies in the world. "Clearfield," said he, "is that not in the big game country?" "Yes, we have deer and bear coming in off the mountains and setting foot right on our streets frequently," we told him.

Then he wanted to know more about it, and although he was a busy man, he insisted on being told hunting camp yarns for more than an hour, and was much interested in hunting methods.

And we told him all he wanted to know about it for

It's a great place we have here. Let's tell the world more about it.

DECLARES WAR IS JUSTIFIED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—A concurrent resolution declaring Mexico immediately was introduced today in the Senate by Senator Fall, of New Mexico. The Fall resolution also would put Congress on record as backing up the State Department.

Fall declared that evidence had been obtained that would astound the country when it is produced. Senator Fall declared that the resolution by Senator Ashurst demanding the War Department to send troops to the border did not cover the situation and that war should be declared.

SALE OF HEALTH
BONDS IS UNDER
WAY IN CLEARFIELD

The sale of health bonds, in connection with the Christmas Seal Campaign, started off Monday of this week with a boom. The chairman of the sales committees report great success so far. A surprisingly large number of the bonds have been sold, and the Christmas Seals turned back, so that more money can be realized from the seals. Forty eight thousand and seals have been sold. It is expected that more than 250,000 Seals, (Clearfield's quote) will be sold before the Campaign ends. All those purchasing Health Bonds will become members of the Health Bond Club, and their names will be published each day.

The Health Bonds are selling so rapidly at all points in the state that many committees have ordered additional bonds from State Headquarters. The Northwestern Anti-Tuberculosis League, which includes the counties of Warren, McKean, Potter, Forest, Elk and Cameron, has doubled its order, as has also Punxsutawney.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 3.—Pennsylvania can be freed from the menace of tuberculosis in the next ten years, if the public will only co-operate with the state authorities and the private agencies doing tuberculosis work, says State Chairman E. J. Stackpole, of the Christmas Seal Committee, in an appeal to the public to make the seal work starting Monday, a success.

The tragedy of tuberculosis, with its annual death toll of 40,000 persons in this state, says Mr. Stackpole, is that it is a preventable disease. Wipe out insanitary housing conditions, guard against malnutrition, provide for prompt treatment at the first sign of the disease and tuberculosis will be conquered. Mr. Stackpole calls attention to the fact that the American Legion are among those who are most active in the fight against tuberculosis, because they have had the menace of the disease brought directly home to them. "With the demobilization of the American army," says Mr. Stackpole, "there has come a prompt mobilization of returned soldiers to combat a even greater foe to humanity than the Hun. Sixty nine thousand men who were the victims of tuberculosis without the knowledge of the health authorities, were rejected by local draft boards in the United States. Upon reaching camp 23,000 more were rejected for the same cause. Of the total 9,000 at least were Pennsylvanians.

Pennsylvania is organizing for a campaign against tuberculosis that is to include every county. The battle

JOSEPH FARRAN
PASSES AWAY

The entire community was shocked to learn today of the death of Joseph Farran, a promising young man, who was principal of the Lehigh Valley school a couple of years ago. He had a host of good friends and acquaintances throughout the county. Mr. Farran was a native of Clearfield, and was a member of the navy and was sent to Princeton, N. J., at one of the resorts. The nature of the work that he was engaged in, and the exposure to the elements resulted in the undermining of his health and he came back in a weakened physical condition. He continued to grow weaker until some four weeks ago he was admitted to the Clearfield Hospital where everything in the nature of medical science was applied to restore his health but to no avail. Mr. Farran is the son of T. H. Farran, of New Milford, and the bereaved family have the sincere sympathy of all Clearfield people.

Previous to his military service Mr. Farran appeared to be in robust health and it can truly be said that he gave his life in defense of his country.

Before teaching school in Clearfield Mr. Farran worked as a reporter on The Progress. His work was such that he commanded the respect and genuine admiration of the force.

Funeral arrangements are not yet complete but the body will be removed to the K. of C. rooms late today and friends are invited to view the body there this evening.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

LITTLE SNAKES.

"Some people," said Daddy, "don't like stories about snakes. But I know that Nancy and Nick like stories of all kinds of creatures under the sun."

"We do," said Nancy.

"Daddy is right," said Nick.

"Then I must tell you the tale of the little snakes that when they were in the zoo."

"You can," Daddy continued, "some folks don't like snakes because they crawl. They have to crawl or they couldn't get around and it seems to me that snakes are very good natured not to find it awkward that they can't run and hop and skip."

"But they have learned to go very, very quickly and their crawls are fast—much faster than any people's power of running."

"One does have to admire the snakes for being able to do so much without legs or arms, don't you think so?"

"Of course," said Nick. "I think snakes are interesting. I have their coloring and their funny ways and their queer hissing voices."

"I like all except poisonous snakes," said Nancy.

"Well, of course, no one wants to be poisoned," said Daddy.

"That's so," said Nick.

"It's good to have a little talk once

Here Are Some Baby Snakes.

In a while," said Daddy, "for we can all chat together and chatting is such fun, and we can chat with each other and with other daddies and boys and girls are chatting about and if they're agreeing with us or not."

"Yes, chatting is one of the most pleasant things whether it be between Nick and Nancy, or other little boys and little girls, or big boys and big girls, or daddies or mothers, or uncles or aunts or sisters."

"And the story I have to tell you tonight is about a number of little snakes—nice, young snakes."

"They had just been brought to the zoo."

"Mother hadn't bothered about us," said one of the little snakes, "and we surprised the people who found us very much."

"Tell us how it happened?" asked some other snakes.

"We were all sleeping under a stone, having a very nice sleep when we were disturbed by people with their hands and their loud voices."

"Oh look! the people said, 'here are some baby snakes. They're very young. Their mother has left them but that's dreadful!'"

"Then they thought we'd be nice in the zoo. They thought that others might enjoy seeing us and hearing the story of our short but very sweet outside lives."

"So they presented us to the zoo, or in other words they made presents of us."

"But weren't they silly to think that Mother was dreadful to leave us?"

"They were," answered the other snakes.

"Mother had other things to go, and the little snakes who had been doing the talking."

"Of course," the other snakes answered.

"And we were quite happy under that stone," said the little snakes. "We weren't a bit lonely or homesick or whatever it was we should have been."

"Oh, well," said the other snakes, "people don't always understand snakes and different snake families as they should."

"And they seem to think," one snake continued, "that their ways are the only sensible and right ways for everyone and everything."

"Very silly," hissed the little snakes.

"Very silly," hissed all the other snakes in the zoo."

A Meeting Point.

"A train leaves Chicago," supposed the teacher, "traveling 40 miles an hour. It is followed 20 minutes later by a train traveling 50 miles an hour. At what point will the second run into the first?"

The class seemed at a loss—that is, all except Willie Brown.

"Willie!" called the teacher.

"At the hind end of the hind engine," answered Willie.

The Gates of Gladness

By GEORGE ELMER COBB

(Copyright, 1919, by The Western Newspaper Union)

It was the fondest hope of Frances Hastings that she would be able to change the gates of gloom—as she considered the portals to the fenced-in little red country schoolhouse at Apperthorpe—the gates of gladness. She had just arranged for board and lodging with a widow lady at the next-door settlement.

"You'll have your crosses, dear," Mrs. Foster declared, "and the principal one will be the Royston boys."

"Who are the Royston boys?" questioned Frances apprehensively.

"Four—Tom, Frederick, Ned, and John. Bob, twelve; Dick, ten. Did you know the large house just beyond the depot surrounded by fir trees?"

"Why, yes, I did," announced Frances, "and I noticed, too, a well-governed, probably leading young man at the gate."

"That is Mr. Noel Burton," replied her talkative landlady, "and he is the adopted father of those four young trouble-makers. I fancy they have about worn him out with their pranks. They had a rebellion at the school about once a month and your predecessor gave up his task in despair. There are other scholars who are troublesome, but the Roystons are simply unmanageable."

"But does not Mr. Burton try to curb them?"

"He can't. About all he thinks about is his books, for he is a great student. The boys overrun him and he is too much occupied with what he calls a sense of duty to resist them. You see when his sister, a widow, died, he promised to be a father to the little orphans, and a close handful he has had."

All this rather discouraged Frances, but by the time the school opened she had gathered up complete information in the history and traits of all of the scholars and had decided upon a definite policy. She stood in the open doorway as the customary children trooped in. To each she extended a welcoming hand.

"I hope we are all going to be like a happy, helpful family this term," she said.

Jem Royston granted ungraciously and slipped past the extended hand. Each of his brothers returned the greeting cheerily.

"Hi, Jim! late again! Jim always lately panted a girl at twelve, dashed longingly into the study room after the last stroke of the bell had sounded."

"Quite a Meyer List, is it not?" queried Frances kindly.

"Yes," and I have to help with the classes."

"I know all about it," interrupted Frances graciously, "and we are going to excuse you always, if you are a little behind time. You wouldn't run this way, though, and get all worn and flustered. Now, children!"

All hands fixed their eyes on the new teacher. Miss Hollings took from the book the mottled, discolored fool's cap her predecessor had used. She walked to the stove and thrust it out of view. Then she picked up the ruler on the desk and beckoned to the elder Royston lad.

"You are stout and strong, Jem," she spoke. "Won't you please break the ruler in two and throw it out of the window? We won't need that kind of thing any more, will we?" and Jem snatched up with hesitance at this compliment to his strength and snarled off in reducing the ruler to splinters.

A strange spell of calm brooded over the little schoolroom that morning. Jem Royston alone exhibited some restlessness. At recess Miss Hollings called him up to her desk.

"You like to be outside, Jem, do you not?" she inquired.

"Should say I do! But if I had my way I'd be in the woods half the time."

"That is a good trait. It shows that you must love nature, and the birds, and the flowers. I have an errand for you to do, if you will be so kind. It is to go down to the general store and get some crayons for blackboard service. You needn't come back here till afternoon school."

It was a strenuous week for the polite, though at times fearsome teacher, diplomat, but at its end she burst in upon Mrs. Foster with a radiant face.

"Oh, I am so happy!" she cried. "These Royston boys have become my latest loyal champions."

"And Mr. Burton was over here an hour ago," said Mrs. Foster, "wondering what new mischief the lads were brewing for they had changed so in a week he had not suspected."

Mr. Burton told the same story over again to Frances in person a week later, and he seemed to entertain so favorable and graceful an opinion of the charming, friendly school teacher, that his detestable was to stroll over to the little red schoolhouse and walk home with her.

The town is full of dreadfully anxious to have her stay for another year," Mrs. Foster said to Frances at the end of the school term.

"I have changed my plans," stammered Frances in an embarrassed way.

"For the better, dear? Did you deserve it, wise old widow? And you deserve it. You managed those naughty boys as their teacher, and as their adopted father you can certainly make perfect angels of them!"

Explaining Geysers.
In a word, the whole secret of the intermittent geyser lies in a subterranean reservoir, the contents of which are forced out by steam expansion every time it gets filled up. The Yellowstone park is a region which not so very long ago was fiercely volcanic. In that role it has ceased to play an alarming part, but locally the earth's crust is extremely thin. A very literal hell rages not far beneath the places frequented by tourists, and there is devised the heat that causes the outbursts of the geysers.

PRESBYTERIAN MEN WILL BANQUET TOMORROW EVE

During the period of the war when demands came from every quarter for all our effort and service the work of the church retarded. In fact that church gave itself to the task of the hour in our country's need. Its patriotism pointed its followers and the urgent demands and bade them serve in the Master's name. Its own program for aggressive service was laid by for the time.

Now the great war on the battlefield is victoriously won and the church of Jesus Christ of every great denomination is setting itself to take up and carry on the work which has suffered for the past three years.

Every denomination has seen the vision of the possibility of the church. Every one has felt certain reactions from the great world struggle. All are deeply American and see in the unrest and menace of radicalism an added responsibility. All believe that the gospel of Jesus Christ in application to life will solve many internal problems. So the church setting itself to the task is marshalling its forces, is finding out its individual tasks, is making every congregation feel a personal responsibility in the carrying out of a definite program of efficiency. It is a man's job, and the church is calling on her men. She calls on them just for reasonable service, but at all events an honest service. She stands to fulfill her mission in the world. To bring men and God face to face, so that men shall know His saving grace in Christ. To train her membership to be leaders of men. To preach and live for the principle and institutions our fathers have preserved and passed on to us. The home, family, state, must be preserved at any cost. The world waits on the church for leadership in the great world problems of the hour.

On Thursday evening at a dinner in the Presbyterian church, one of the leaders of the church will speak. Dr. Selden L. Haynes, for many years the successful pastor at Kingston, N. Y.—alive, awake, aggressive, leading in every war work, a powerful speaker, the church has called him to the bigger, broader task of its great forward New Era Movement. He comes not to give a great address, but to sit with the hundred and more men and talk about the things which God expects His men to do in His church. Dr. Haynes is a thoroughly Princeton man—graduating from the University and Theological Seminary and a personal friend of Dr. Reeve when in Princeton.

One of the most important meetings in relation to the welfare of the Presbyterian church, is to be held in Phillipsburg, December 5th. You owe it to your church to be present if possible. Go and get ideas and plans from successful pastors, on the best way of interesting your entire membership in an aggressive campaign of Christian work.

This is not a meeting devoted to speech making, but for the assigning of definite tasks to YOUR church.

You want to see the attendance of your church doubled, your membership greatly increased, your Sunday School made efficient. This is part of our task. Do you want to know what is expected of your church? Then come and see.

This is the first time the fifteen churches of this group in this end of the Presbytery have met to face their INDIVIDUAL obligations. You see the supreme importance of having all men in attendance. A supper will be served for 75 cents, at 7 o'clock. Dr. Selden Haynes, one of our most successful pastors, will meet with us. Each congregation should at least pay the transportation expenses of its representatives, for this is the church's work.

B. H. CONLEY, Secretary.

Y. M. C. A. WINS BASKET BALL GAME

The Clearfield Y. M. C. A. team journeyed to Pottsville Monday evening and properly trimmed the groundhog city boys. The Pottsville boys could not emulate the efficiency of the groundhog in hitting the hole with the ball. This was the opening game of the season, and the "Y" boys have reason to feel elated. Ammerman, Neff, Martin, Hall and Kurtz are on the local team. The basket record is as follows: Ammerman, 3; Neff, 8; Kurtz, 8; Musser, Howe, Leonard and Stewart were used as subs on the local team and all played a good game. The final score was 50 to 13.

UNCLE SAM INVITES MINERS TO SHARE IN OPERATOR'S PROFITS

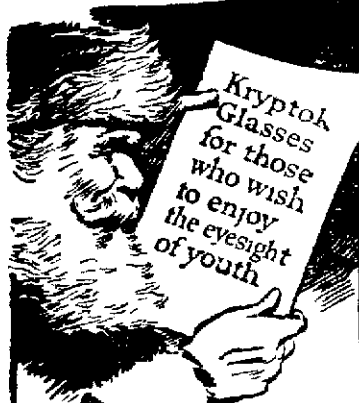

The position taken by the Fuel Administration, which is an arm of the federal government having the support of the whole government, that fourteen per cent. is the figure representing the increase in the cost of living as compared with the pre-war wage scale of the mine workers and that a general average wage increase of fourteen per cent will establish the pre-war status of the miner insofar as earnings relate to the cost of living, puts the mine workers to the choice of two alternatives and at the same time eliminates the operator's further negotiations with the miners. The fourteen per cent offer is based on statistics and might be called a mathematical determination of what is due the worker who produces the coal. At the same time it apparently represents that proportion of the operator's profits which Mr. Garfield believes the operator can spare to the miner without requiring from the consumer of coal a greater price than that set by the government. This point is disputed among the operators. Many declare that they cannot make a profit by paying all the increase themselves, but they are willing to make a try in the interests of taking care of the needs of the nation.

The government in carrying on its price war has set itself dead against any further increase in wages which would of necessity add to the cost of the product. That is why the maximum is placed at fourteen per cent in spite of the fact that an offer of twenty had been made. It amounts to government intervention and Mr. Palmer as the commanding general opposing high prices, on being assured that a larger increase than fourteen per cent would entail an increase in the cost of coal to the consumer, decreed that no bigger wage be offered than the operator could pay and keep within the government's selling cost. On first thought and to the uninitiated, it would appear that the operators have been making big profits, and they have, but they do not begin to approach the figures that are claimed. For instance, it is common to hear that coal is selling at $2.75 per ton. Perhaps a few cars of spot coal have been sold at this price. It is declared that at least one-third of the output of this district is contracted for at a price approximating $2.45. Coal at this price, therefore, does not yield a profit and the operator must depend on market sales for his profit, while the output coal keeps his mine in total operation.

In accepting the fourteen per cent offer the miner will be contributing

REVISION OF STATE CONSTITUTION IS TOPIC OF INTEREST

The Spauld administration plans to make the study of the Constitution of 1873 by the Commission of Twenty-five announced by the Governor one of the monumental achievements of the Delaware counties term and it is the plan to have the work of the body which will be called to meet in Harrisburg within a month or so to before the people the November following the inauguration of the Spauld successor. Two legislatures will be called upon to vote upon the proposition for revision or amendment before they are submitted to the electorate. Voters of Pennsylvania have voted changes to the Constitution in six elections, he'll in many years, the Legislature of 1919 having already submitted a couple of propositions as well as advancing other. The Constitution of 1873 is the basis on which Pennsylvania has been governed. The first was the document of 1776 adopted in Philadelphia, the second was adopted in Philadelphia in 1790 immediately following the ratification of the U. S. Constitution, and the third was adopted in 1873. At the time the constitution was adopted in 1873 the convention met in Harrisburg, where it met in 1873 with John Sergeant as the president and C. F. Smith as the president-elect in 1873.

November 3, 1877, the convention met here about a year ago, moving to Philadelphia. William M. Meredith, of Philadelphia, a Quaker, chosen to succeed him when he died. The first constitutional convention was composed of 96, the second of 133 and the last of the same number.

The Constitution of 1873 was ratified by 237,744 to 108,894. A few years later this ratification was set to efforts to bring a new constitution but the only such proposition to go before the people was defeated November 5, 1891, by the decisive vote of 420,595 to 17,817.

Since then no effort has been made for a constitutional convention, the campaign of 1912 stimulating such projects. In the last session, the bills for constitutional conventions appeared, but the administration sponsored the idea of a commission to study and recommend revision rather than hold a convention at the time a course which has been approved in many letters coming to the State Capitol.

The first amendments to be ratified were this year in 1901, and the three amendments of 1913, 1914 and 1915, and the graduation of the adopted this theme having been discussed in the minutes. The number of amendments to the constitution was in 1909 when nine were adopted for operators, were adopted and was defeated. The amendments also had the plan, election, charged benches of office and other alterations, mainly in judicial office. Two years later the Philadelphia constitution and constitution was adopted and the new constitution was adopted in 1911. In 1912 the new constitution was adopted and the new constitution was adopted in 1912.

In the last session of the Legislature more than a dozen amendments to the Constitution were proposed, resolutions submitted and many more were proposed but did not get to the legislative stage. The convention named to study the constitution is virtually authorized to make any change in the constitution in its report.

NEIGHBORS

By ANNIE A. CURTIS

Can you be satisfied here, Maud? I asked Mr. Burrows.

Well, not very, I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

Yes, I suppose so. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

Joe's sister, Ruth, was married to a man who was a doctor. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

And just this morning I saw a woman in a pretty sunbonnet while I was out for my morning walk. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

Joe still sits patiently tapping the window pane. Maud told him of the man's saving. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

His face was white as he looked at the old lady. Maud. When we were a child, it will be better for me.

Oh, yes, Maud, you would have been a great help to me. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

Well, I've just had a letter from him. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

And don't forget the new ones. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

In due time the travel. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

He had a part of the year for a game. Every morning Maud took him to work.

Mr. Burrows, for a moment, I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

I'm afraid I'll miss someone who calls to see me. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

I never thought of that. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

No, not at all. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

He tried to smile, but by saying that everyone was busy at that time of year. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

But he was always in her eyes. Mr. Burrows told her family that he was coming home in a few days. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

Just look at her when she gets up. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

That's the trouble. She likes to play and he's dissatisfied. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

But I don't understand why people go out. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

Summer vacation when I go again to the city. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

Oh, yes, I see. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

That's the trouble. She likes to play and he's dissatisfied. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story. I don't like to tell you the whole story.

How About Nuts?

BY ADELIA BELLE BEARD
Get your baskets or bags and let us go on the trail for nuts, now is the time. Better bring your belt-axe or a hatchet to cut a stout stick for beating the trees.

The air is clear and frosty, there is a thrill, too. A good sized thrill always goes with the first nutting of the season. With baskets and bags full to the brim, we will march home again in triumph, but not before we have sampled our loads of toothsome wild meats and tested their sweetness. Is it fun?

But stop a minute. Here is a new thought. There is something more than fun connected with nuts. To know the edible things that grow wild is an important part of Woodcraft, as you would soon discover if you were lost in the wild country with nothing to eat but what you could find growing there.

Nuts are the most nourishing of all wild foods. You could live a long while on nuts. They take the place of meat for a time and satisfy your appetite while strengthening your body, but some of them are rather rich food. Our richest American nut is the acorn.

Do you know it, have you ever tasted it? The Butternut grows plentifully in Ohio and farther south. It has a wild flavor which is not liked by every one and it is quite oily. Its shell is rough like the Walnut, but longer, not round, and the outer husk is green and sticky. When you pound it the juice stains your hands brown.

The small, three sided hickory nut has a most delicate flavor. It takes a good many of these to satisfy a hearty appetite.

Between the Butternut and Pecan-nut, the largest and smallest of our native wild nuts, are the Walnut, Hickory-nut, Chestnut, Hazel-nut and Chinquapin. The Chinquapin grows only in the south.

ADVENTURES THAT MADE AN AMERICAN

Hunting Eye Earns First Dollar

BY E. S. ALEXANDER
"See that snake?" asked the farmer at whose well Hunting Eye had stopped for a drink. "He's a big dangerous one and I'd like to have him killed, but if I throw at him, I'll miss him and he will get away."

The Indian boy had often helped Swiftfoot hunt them with stones among the moss and leaves of the Great North Woods. He took a round stone and threw it at the big black snake sunning itself on the cement walk.

"Good," yelled the farmer. "You've snake his back. That is worth some money to me. Here is a dollar."

"That is a dollar?" asked Hunting

Eye. He must have some thing by which he can measure the value of a dollar so that they may buy and sell and exchange things quickly and easily. Among your people this measure is called a wampum and it is made of half and beads. Anybody is allowed to make it. It is made of silver and copper, three metals which are very scarce.

The Government makes it. It says that a dollar is worth the same as one I give you. There is called a money order. No one but the Government is allowed to make money orders. If everybody were allowed to make money orders, they would be a cheap and different kind of money. No one would know the value of them. So the Government makes money orders and it is the only money that is allowed to be made.

That is the money that is called a dollar. It is the money that is used to buy and sell things. It is the money that is used to pay for things. It is the money that is used to give to people.

Mu-col Quickly Destroys Deadly Catarrh Germs

Proves Mu col Makes Mercable, Deceitful Catarrh Suffers Well Again in Short Time At Trifling Cost.

For Twenty Years Was Advised Exclusively To The Medical Profession

Here is the only sure way to get rid of Catarrh with all its annoying symptoms.

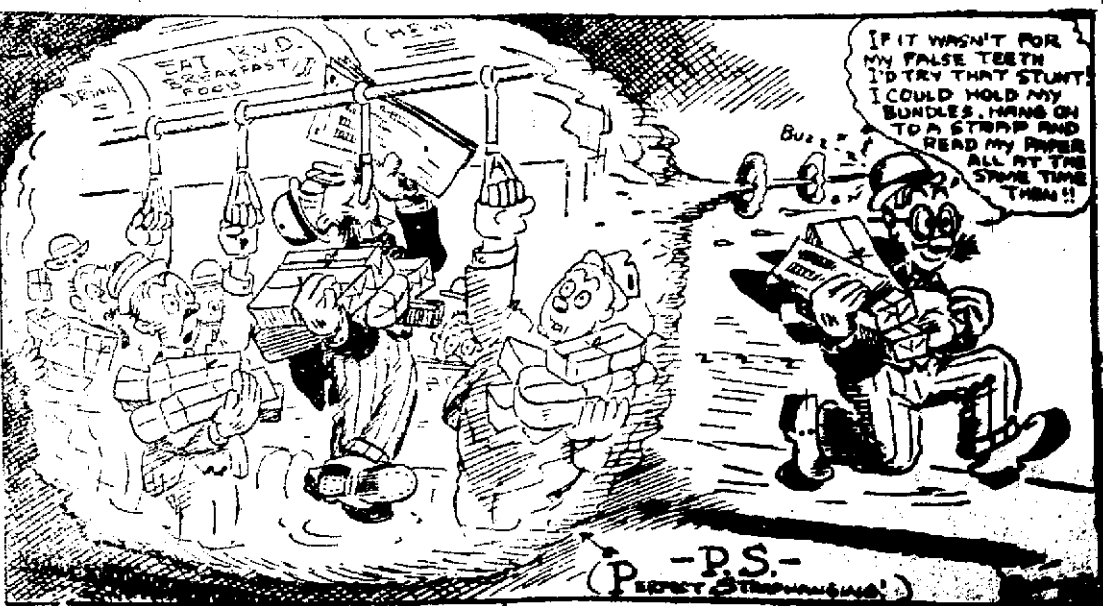

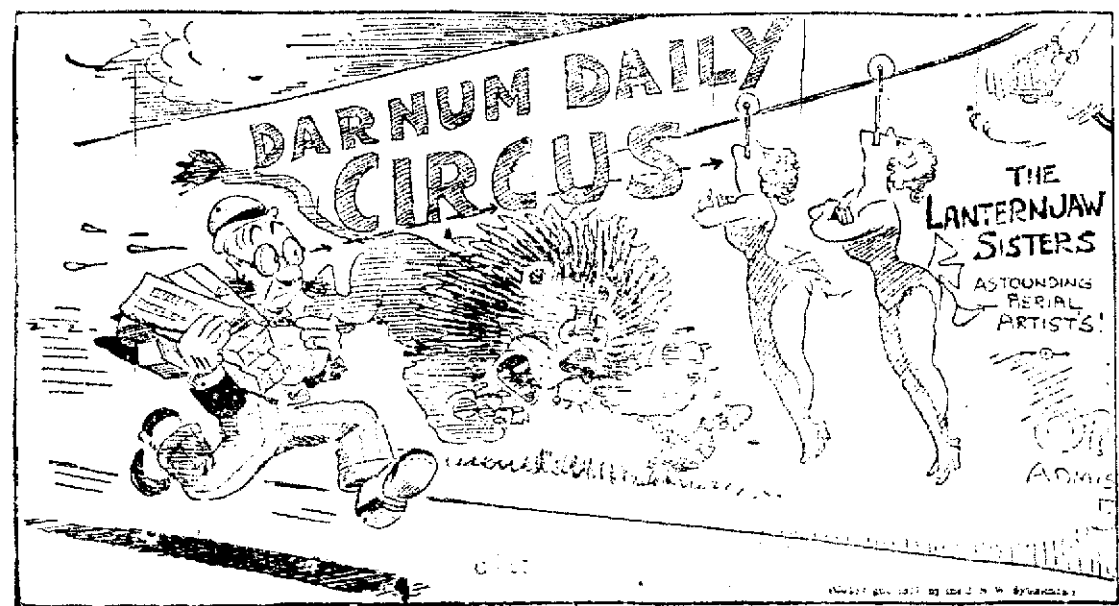

Go to your druggist today for a small package of Dissolve half a teaspoonful of the powerful antiseptic powder in a spoonful of warm water and stir it dissolved. Then, by snuffing up into the palm of the hand or by using nasal douche, allow the MU-COL solution to come into contact with the infected membranes.

You almost instantly feel the effect as its powerful germ-destroying properties are carried into every part and crevice of the mucous membrane where the germs thrive and multiply, loosening up the congestion and accumulated deposits, which if not attended to now, will eventually threaten the existence of the member themselves.

For twenty years MU-COL was verified exclusively to the medical profession. How well it has succeeded even in the most severe cases of infected Catarrhal conditions of the nose and throat, is evidenced by the unstinted praise bestowed upon this truly wonderful discovery by the medical profession.

Only after being announced a complete success is it offered to the general public, and today any first-class drug store can supply you.

Today, as never before, the world is brimming over, palpitant with the fullness. And yet so many of us fail to sense it, to so many of us a primrose is but a primrose, a fallen leaf but a dead thing. In the rush of modern life, with its insistent demands upon our time and attention, driving ourselves from one self-made duty to another, we have missed the glory of the sunshine, the fragrance of the flowers, the beauty and charm and joy that are all about us.—Exchange.

Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Kentucky are officially styled commonwealths, although there seems to be no particular reason except custom, as it has practically the same meaning as state. A commonwealth is a democratic form of government, such as that of each state of the Union, the four using the name commonwealth not differing from the others. As far back as 1636 the Massachusetts colony was spoken of as the commonwealth.

Word was received here on Monday evening announcing the death of the wife of Ernie Benson, who is a telegraph operator for the N. Y. C. R. R. and resides on Bloomington avenue in this place. Her death occurred in a sanitarium at Danville, Pa., where she had been taken several years ago from an institution in Hollidaysburg for treatment of a general nervous breakdown. Her age was about 42 years and she is survived by her husband and four children. Her body will be brought from Danville and conveyed to Reynoldsville for burial.

A good one comes from the mountain deer hunters. The two were hunting together when a spike buck came their way. Shots were fired and the deer went to the mat. Both ran to the animal and decided that it was a doe. Hearing some hunters coming in their direction they walked away a short distance and screened themselves behind some bushes. The other fellows came along having heard the shooting and seeing the deer was a little born protruding knew at a glance what had occurred. So they commenced firing at an imaginary deer and yelling "his down and we've got him." They were standing over the deer congratulating themselves on Harrisburg, Pa.—"About three years ago I took sick very suddenly, the trouble was with my kidneys. I passed small stones and kept getting worse all the time. I was under the doctor's care for four months. Then our children wanted us to call in another doctor which we did and I began to improve but it didn't last but a short time. Then

Dr. Pierce's Anurie (anti-uric acid). Improvement followed and I can say it cured me entirely. The doctor we had at first said I would never get well. Well I am sure I had continued with the first doctor I would not be here today. I am thanks to Dr. Pierce for the wonderful discovery he has made and the many people lives he has saved. Now we have the "Anurie Tablets" and the "Golden Medical Discovery" on hand. This is my experience and I am very grateful for what Dr. Pierce's medicines have done for me. —MRS. S. A. While it is true that the beautiful colors displayed by the rainbow are due to the passage of light through raindrops, the popular conception that the drops are directly in line between the sun and the bow is incorrect, according to scientists. The light enters the raindrop and is refracted and reflected back to form the bow. In this passage through the drop the different colors are produced which blend to make our ordinary white light.

Tells why everyone should drink
hot water with phosphate
in it before breakfast.

Headaches are caused by auto-intoxication—which means self-poisoning. Liver and bowel poisons called toxins, sucked into the blood, excite the heart which pumps the blood so fast that it congests in the small arteries and veins of the head, producing violent, throbbing pain and distress, called headache. You become nervous, despondent, sick, feverish and miserable, your meals sour and almost nauseate you. Then you resort to acetanilid, aspirin or the bromides, when temporarily relieved but do not aid the blood of these irritating toxins.

A glass of hot water with a tea-spoonful of limestone phosphate in it drunk before breakfast will not only wash these poisons from your system and cure you of headache, but will cleanse, purify and freshen the alimentary canal.

Ask your pharmacist for a quarter pound of limestone phosphate. It is inexpensive, harmless as sugar.

If you aren't feeling your best, if tongue is coated or you wake up with bad taste, foul breath or have colds, indigestion, biliousness, constipation or sour, acid stomach, begin the phosphate hot water cure to rid your system of toxins and poisons.

To the Citizens of This Town

You carry great responsibilities.

In your hands are placed the lives of our children. If a fire should start in any schoolhouse two things may happen.

The building may be burned to the ground, and you know the building itself and its equipment could not be replaced today at many times the price it cost.

But that is unimportant compared to the possibility of a panic and loss of life among the children.

Every school building should be equipped with Pyrene Fire Extinguishers, and the use of Pyrene Fire Extinguishers should be taught in every school fire drill.

A Pyrene Fire Extinguisher will put out any small fire before it can gain headway. It is so light and easy that any woman or young child can use it. With a Pyrene handy fire can be put out before there is a chance for a panic.

Let us show you how many Pyrene Fire Extinguishers should be in each schoolhouse in this district.

Pyrene should be in every home also.

GOOD ROADS

KEEP EARTH ROADS IN SHAPE

Engineer of Wisconsin Highway Commission Tells Benefits of Patrol System of Maintenance.

Earth roads will be in existence over wide areas for many years to come, notwithstanding the rapid extension of "permanent" road beds of different materials.

Mr. F. Sergeant, a division engineer of the Wisconsin highway commission, writes:

"After a season's experience with the patrol system of maintenance in division No. 7, where we have practically all earth roads, I am more than ever convinced that this type of road can be fairly well maintained by this system, even where subject to considerable heavy motor traffic.

"A patrol section should not be more than six or seven miles in length and should be taken care of by one man with team. This man should be held responsible for the condition of his section at all times and should be required to devote all of his time to the work.

"The patrolman must have a good team, and the wagon box equipped with a dump bottom. The country should furnish a light two-horse blade grader, road plane, plow, scraper and necessary small tools, such as shovel, pick, bar, brush, scythe, rake, etc.

"In spite of all the claims made for the road drag as a maintenance tool, we find the light blade grader or the road plane far superior to it, and we advocate the use of these tools entirely for road maintenance. We find that a road drag having no bearing except on the blade, has a tendency to gouge out the material in soft spots making them still deeper, and giving the road a bad, wavy surface, while the blade grader or the road plane, having a long wheel base or bearing surface cuts only on the high spots and distributes the material in low places, building them up and giving the road a nice, smooth, driving surface. A blade grader should be so constructed that one man can drive the team and make all adjustments necessary while the machine is moving, as only one man is required on this work.

"An earth road with low crown and badly galled shoulders cannot be properly maintained by the patrolman, but should be first trimmed up with a heavier outfit, cutting off and removing heavy sods, properly heaping up the crown, filling low places and opening up drainage.

"The blade grader should not be used on earth roads when they are sloppy, but should be used as soon as the material is dry enough to roll nicely on the blade, and pick into the ruts and depressions. And no great amount of material should be moved at one time; a quarter or half inch cut is sufficient for the best results, furnishing all the material that the blade can distribute evenly. Under ordinary weather

er conditions the material is in a fair condition to work with the grader for about three days after a rain, giving ample time for three full rounds of the section which should leave even a badly rutted road in fairly good condition. Be sure to always make the first round trip on the center of the road.

"Six inches of crown to a 24-foot driving surface is sufficient. Care should be taken that the roadbed is nicely rounded, and not dragged to a peak in the center or a large ridge of loose earth left there."

Vast British Empire.

Including all her possessions, the British empire has the largest territory. It had at the beginning of the war a total area of 13,122,712 square miles, of which 12,512 are in Europe, 2,187,530 in Asia, 3,018,245 in North America, 8,009 in Central America, 12,300 in the West Indies, 97,800 in South America and 3,214,635 in Australasia.

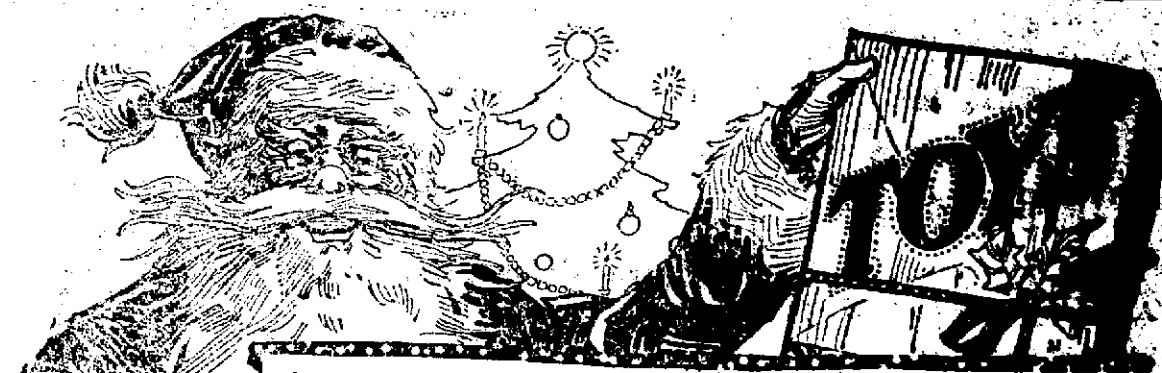

The Works of Peace.

There remains to us a great duty of defense and preservation; and there is open to us also a noble pursuit, to which the spirit of the times strongly invites us. Let us advance the arts of peace and the works of peace. Let us develop the resources of our land, call forth its powers, build up its institutions, promote all its great interests, and see whether we, also, in our day and generation, may not perform something worthy to be remembered.

Sage Tea keeps
Your Hair Dark

It's Grandmother's recipe to bring color, youthfulness and lustre—Everybody is using it again.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

WILLIAM CARLISLE LAUGHING BANDIT FINALLY CAPTURED

DOUGLAS, Wyo., Dec 2—William
Carlisle, the "laughing bandit" is a prisoner in the Douglas jail tonight.
He was captured by a posse of deputy sheriffs late today. The bandit surrendered without a fight, after being cornered.

Carlisle escaped three weeks ago
from the state penitentiary at Rawlins, where he was serving a long time
for train robbing. He left the prison concealed in a laundry basket. Two days later he held up a limited train, marched through the coaches robbing passengers and escaped with a few hundred dollars. Special deputies sent out to hunt him were on the train at the time.

After the train robbery, Carlisle walked boldly into the telegraph office and sent a telegram to the railroad officials, telling them of the robbery and his escape. Later other messages signed by Carlisle were sent to the railroad officials and newspapers from different parts of the country.

The posse came upon Carlisle in a ranch house last night but he escape

Raisin Grapes.
Ordinary grapes do not make good raisins. Leading varieties used are the Muscatel, Gordo, Blaufranc, Muscat of Alexandria and Malaga. The bunches are cut from the vines and placed on trays to sundry being turned from time to time. The process is simple. Large growers have curing sheds to avoid risk in drying on account of rain. Seeding is done

Brass Most Useful Alloy.
Brass is perhaps the best known and most useful alloy. It is formed by fusing together copper and zinc. Different proportions of these metals produce alloys possessing marked distinctive properties. The proportions of the different ingredients are seldom precisely alike; these depend upon the requirements of various uses for which the alloys are intended. Peculiar qualities of the constituent metals also exercise influence on the results.

JOINT RESOLUTION DECLARING WAR IS OVER CO-SIDERED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—The surprise manifested by senators today
over the failure of the President to mention the peace treaty in his message to Congress, gave way to action
when Senator Lodge, chairman of the Foreign Relations committee, convoked the meeting of that body,
and later announced that the committee would hold a meeting Thursday.

At that time it is expected that the committee will report out a joint resolution declaring the war to be a dead end.

Republican senators today discus-
ed this proposal with House leaders,
and the upshot of their conference
was the decision to push the resolution with all haste. Senator Moses of New Hampshire, talked the matter over with Representative Campbell
of Kansas, chairman of the house committee on rules, and it is believed the House will vote in favor of such
a resolution.

Senators Moses and Fall were in conference with Senator Lodge tonight and the only thing that can prevent the meeting of the foreign relations committee on Thursday is the absence of some of its members.

Several of the Republican members are out of Washington.
Until Senator Lodge and his colleagues decided to push the joint resolution the treaty situation was one
of stagnation and mystery.

If Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

Says Backache is a sign you have
been eating too much meat,
which forms uric acid.

When you wake up with backache
and dull misery in the kidney region
it generally means you have been eating too much meat says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood
and they become sort of paralyzed and lorry. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels,
removing all the body's urinous waste
else you backache sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, cannells often get sore, water-colds, and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jael
Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass
of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice,
combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder
weakness.

Jael Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful
effervescent lithia-water drink.

man way of saving for you.

FOREIGN MINISTER
ISSUES STATEMENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—Senator Fall, of the special Mexican investigating committee is ready to report any time on the advisability of armed intervention by the United States into Mexico. Fall just back from the border had a long conference with Secretary Lansing. Meanwhile Mexico has not replied to Lansing's second note requesting release of Wm. O. Jenkins, American consular agent imprisoned at Puebla.

Another refusal to free Jenkins would not surprise the State Department.

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 2.—The Mexican government has not changed its attitude in the Jenkins case. This statement was made today by Hilaro Menia, acting foreign minister, in an exclusive interview with the United Press.

"Mexico's position is the same as that stated in the recent note to the United States," said Menia.

"We outlined the facts as they are and they are unchanged. It is true relations are delicate but not so critical as to cause a break. I do not think we are beyond the possibility of an amicable settlement," Menia said he reserved his opinion on the last American note.

CONGRESS HEARS TREASURY DEPT.
REPORT ON CONDITION OF AFFAIRS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—A deficit of more than three billion dollars will show on the books of the government June 30, 1920, the close of the current fiscal year Secretary of Treasury Glass estimated in his annual report to Congress today. A deficit of one and a half billions looms for the next fiscal year, Glass also estimated. The figures given by Glass are an estimate or forecast of conditions which according to knowledge now in hand will be available in six months and a year and a half hence. Congress, however, will use them in repairing the tax laws as suggested by President Wilson and paring appropriations.

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE READY TO
ACT TO RELIEVE SUGAR SITUATION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—The Department of Justice's plans for dealing with the sugar situation will be made known today. The plans were discussed at a conference early today between assistant Attorney General Ames and Willis Glasco, general counsel for the United States Sugar Equality board. A conference of sugar refiners which was to have opened here was postponed indefinitely.

CHARACTER WITNESSES APLENTY FOR LEIB

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 3.—Thirty character witnesses arrived today for the trial of W. S. Leib accused of forging state tax receipts, to testify to the good reputation of the defendant. Among them included legislators, lawyers and prominent citizens of Schuylkill county awaited their turn to appear on the stand. The testimony today was expected to be much like yesterday when the defense will try to prove that Leib was not in Philadelphia at the time he is alleged to have turned over the tax receipts to Joseph E. Evans. A hotel registry was presented to show that Leib was in Harrisburg.

CLARION MAN TO ENFORCE
PROHIBITION IN STATE

Former State Senator W. Wayne Hindman of Clarion who has a number of friends in this locality is to be appointed federal prohibition enforcement officer for Pennsylvania, according to the present understanding.

He has been recommended by Attorney General Palmer, and is expected in Washington on Friday to confer with the prohibition enforcement authorities of the Treasury Department.

Hindman was elected to the Senate in 1914 from the 28th district which is composed of Clarion, Forest, E. C. Cameron and Clinton counties in 1918 he was defeated for re-election.

Future Of U. M. W.
Of A. In Hands
Of Rank And File

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the U. M. W. of A. was held at the local offices of the organization late yesterday afternoon. While nothing was given out for publication it is understood that no official action was taken on the government offer of a fourteen per cent. increase and contrary to the expectation of the general public, the officials of District No. 2 apparently do not intend to lift their hands to further the desires of the government to have the offer accepted and give their official endorsement to "standing pat" and those who were looking to their superior officers for the much desired advice to go to work and earn wages are doomed to disappointment. This action is bound to bring about more or less discussion among the rank and file of the miners. Their interests are at stake and time will tell whether they are going to follow in the footsteps of their officers on this matter. There is much food for thought in this action, or rather lack of action. Many questions pop up.

What effect will the prolonged strike have on the membership of the United Mine Workers? That is the problem that is giving much concern to the union member and no doubt to union officials. With many mines already in operation and with some miners from union mines seeking employment in other communities at mines that are operating, most of them non-union, it is feared that there will be a defection in the ranks. This defection cannot be stopped but with every day of idleness will be increased.

The average miner is intensely loyal to his organization. He has seen it grow to a powerful organization until it has reached the peak of influence among labor organizations. He thoroughly believes in it. He has fought for it, bled for it, sacrificed for it every day of his life. It has been the means of correcting hundreds of evils of the old day. It has been the bulwark against corporate greed and capitalistic lust. Without it the miners lot today would be that of the steel workers whose twelve hour a day grind is one of the wonders of modern times.

In this crisis in the annals of unionized mine labor the miner should and will eventually act with a view to protecting his organization for future usefulness to himself. If he believes that every member of his organization will stick in the fight against the fourteen per cent. increase promulgated by the government, then in justice to his organization and its welfare as a united body he may remain away from the mines although by so doing he will array against him the forces of public sentiment and all other elements dependent on him for needed coal.

It is no secret that there are operators, and perhaps they are in the majority who hope that the miner will not accept the mandate of the government and will continue to hold out until the union organization is entirely disrupted by defection on the part of individuals. The hope that eventually the mine workers through their organization would bring about their own disruption has been nurtured so long by these operators that it has become a passion with them.

It would seem to be good business from the standpoint of organized labor to accept the government offer, return to work, regain the confidence and esteem of the public and by so doing keep their organization intact for future battles. Every miner must think for himself on this proposition always keeping in the mind the future welfare of the organization which has meant so much to him.

CRYSTAL SPRINGS LANDS
FINE BUCK

The deluxe hunting camp of the mountains landed a fine six point buck last evening just in time to have the fun of talking it over at the supper table while the Victrola was playing, the electric lights were shimmering and the orchestra was playing the Anvil Chorus. Our informant declares it to be one of the prize bucks of the year in weight and beauty. The joy over the killing of the buck was dimmed somewhat by the uncalled for and disgraceful act of one of the most popular members of the camp. This gentleman was standing on a stump meditating over his favorite passage of scripture when a beautiful eight point buck stepped out of the bushes nearby and bowed a how-de-do. Taking careless aim he fired once, he fired twice and the buck is still going. An eye witness to the affair reported the occurrence and in two jiffies, George M. Rosser was there with his lineoleum yardstick and a careful measurement, oldfoll measure, indicated the buck was just one hundred and eight inches from Bill Boyce when he fired the fatless shot. Bill knows better, now what an Anvil Chorus is.

BREAK OF RELATIONS WITH MEXICOJACK BOYLE OF DUBOIS INJURED
WHILE HUNTING

Jack Boyle was brought to the DuBois hospital yesterday at noon suffering from a severe gunshot wound in the left leg suffered while he was with a party of hunters in the mountains near Glenwood. The bullet went clear thru the foot and it is believed that two bones were broken. It is probable that Mr. Boyle will lose the use of a couple of toes, but otherwise will get all right.

Mr. Boyle along with a number of B. R. & P. men, had gone to the mountains on Monday to hunt deer. Yesterday morning the party of three started out and a deer was sighted. He was lost, however, in the underbrush and Mr. Boyle, whose rifle was cocked, threw the gun over his shoulder preparatory to climbing a tree to take a look over the country. In some manner the trigger caught and the gun went off, the bullet striking the left foot. The shot attracted the attention of the other members of the party, who hurried to the scene, believing that a deer had been shot. They found Mr. Boyle on the ground and suffering from the wound. The men in the party, being B. R. & P. employees were versed in first aid and immediately gave the wound attention. They then formed a stretcher by using their hunting coats and poles and the task of getting Mr. Boyle to the railroad was started. It was some what a difficult piece of work, as the hunters were two miles in the mountains and the going was tough at times, especially as Mr. Boyle is no lightweight. The railroad was reached without further mishap, however, and the Clearfield accommodation was flagged. Mr. Boyle was placed aboard and after the arrival of the train was taken to the DuBois hospital, where he was given attention. His condition last evening was very satisfactory.

E. W. HESS OFF TO ATTEND

A real treat will be enjoyed by our townsman, E. W. Hess, this evening, when he attends the thirty third annual meeting of the Coal Mining Institute of America, which meets at Pittsburgh for a two day session. Among the notable speakers will be R. Dawson Hall, Editor of the Coal Age, Dr. G. H. Ashley, State Geologist of Harrisburg, Dr. A. A. Hamerschlag, President of Carnegie Institute, and Dr. J. A. Brashers the grand old scientist of Pittsburgh, who is described on the program as the "Foremost Citizen of Pennsylvania."

Recently the writer was in Philadelphia on business, and in the course of the day met the Vice President of one of the largest paper manufacturing companies in the world. Then he wanted to know more about it, and although he was a busy man, he insisted on being told hunting camp yarns for more than an hour, and was much interested in hunting methods.

And we told him all he wanted to know about it for

DECLARES WAR IS JUSTIFIED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 3.—A concurrent resolution declaring Mexico immediately was introduced today in the Senate by Senator Fall, of New Mexico. The Fall resolution also would put Congress on record as backing up the State Department.

Fall declared that evidence had been obtained that would astound the country when it is produced. Senator Fall declared that the resolution by Senator Ashurst demanding the War Department to send troops to the border did not cover the situation and that war should be declared.

SALE OF HEALTH
BONDS IS UNDER
WAY IN CLEARFIELD

The sale of health bonds, in connection with the Christmas Seal Campaign, started off Monday of this week with a boom. The chairman of the sales committees report great success so far. A surprisingly large number of the bonds have been sold, and the Christmas Seals turned back, so that more money can be realized from the seals. Forty eight thousand and seals have been sold. It is expected that more than 250,000 Seals, (Clearfield's quote) will be sold before the Campaign ends. All those purchasing Health Bonds will become members of the Health Bond Club, and their names will be published each day.

The Health Bonds are selling so rapidly at all points in the state that many committees have ordered additional bonds from State Headquarters. The Northwestern Anti-Tuberculosis League, which includes the counties of Warren, McKean, Potter, Forest, Elk and Cameron, has doubled its order, as has also Punxsutawney.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Dec. 3.—Pennsylvania can be freed from the menace of tuberculosis in the next ten years, if the public will only co-operate with the state authorities and the private agencies doing tuberculosis work, says State Chairman E. J. Stackpole, of the Christmas Seal Committee, in an appeal to the public to make the seal work starting Monday, a success.

The tragedy of tuberculosis, with its annual death toll of 40,000 persons in this state, says Mr. Stackpole, is that it is a preventable disease. Wipe out insanitary housing conditions, guard against malnutrition, provide for prompt treatment at the first sign of the disease and tuberculosis will be conquered. Mr. Stackpole calls attention to the fact that the American Legion are among those who are most active in the fight against tuberculosis, because they have had the menace of the disease brought directly home to them. "With the demobilization of the American army," says Mr. Stackpole, "there has come a prompt mobilization of returned soldiers to combat a even greater foe to humanity than the Hun. Sixty nine thousand men who were the victims of tuberculosis without the knowledge of the health authorities, were rejected by local draft boards in the United States. Upon reaching camp 23,000 more were rejected for the same cause. Of the total 9,000 at least were Pennsylvanians.

Pennsylvania is organizing for a campaign against tuberculosis that is to include every county. The battle

JOSEPH FARRAN
PASSES AWAY

The entire community was shocked to learn today of the death of Joseph Farran, a promising young man, who was principal of the Lehigh Valley school a couple of years ago. He had a host of good friends and acquaintances throughout the county. Mr. Farran was a native of Clearfield, and was a member of the navy and was sent to Princeton, N. J., at one of the resorts. The nature of the work that he was engaged in, and the exposure to the elements resulted in the undermining of his health and he came back in a weakened physical condition. He continued to grow weaker until some four weeks ago he was admitted to the Clearfield Hospital where everything in the nature of medical science was applied to restore his health but to no avail. Mr. Farran is the son of T. H. Farran, of New Milford, and the bereaved family have the sincere sympathy of all Clearfield people.

Previous to his military service Mr. Farran appeared to be in robust health and it can truly be said that he gave his life in defense of his country.

Before teaching school in Clearfield Mr. Farran worked as a reporter on The Progress. His work was such that he commanded the respect and genuine admiration of the force.

Funeral arrangements are not yet complete but the body will be removed to the K. of C. rooms late today and friends are invited to view the body there this evening.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

LITTLE SNAKES.

"Some people," said Daddy, "don't like stories about snakes. But I know that Nancy and Nick like stories of all kinds of creatures under the sun."

"We do," said Nancy.

"Daddy is right," said Nick.

"You can," Daddy continued, "some folks don't like snakes because they crawl. They have to crawl or they couldn't get around and it seems to me that snakes are very good natured not to find it awkward they can't run and hop and skip."

"But they have learned to go very, very quickly and their crawls are fast—much faster than any people's power of running."

"One does have to admire the snakes for being able to do so much without legs or arms, don't you think so?"

"Of course," said Nick. "I think snakes are interesting. I have their coloring and their funny ways and their queer hissing voices."

"I like all except poisonous snakes," said Nancy.

"Well, of course, no one wants to be poisoned," said Daddy.

"That's so," said Nick.

"It's good to have a little talk once

Here Are Some Baby Snakes.

In a while," said Daddy, "for we can all chat together and chatting is such fun, and we can chat we can imagine what other daddies and boys and girls are chatting about and if they're agreeing with us or not."

"Yes, chatting is one of the most pleasant things whether it be between Nick and Nancy, or other little boys and little girls, or big boys and big girls, or daddies or mothers, or uncles or aunts or sisters."

"And the story I have to tell you tonight is about a number of little snakes—nice, young snakes."

"They had just been brought to the zoo."

"Mother hadn't bothered about us," said one of the little snakes, "and we surprised the people who found us very much."

"Tell us how it happened?" asked some other snakes.

"We were all sleeping under a stone, having a very nice sleep when we were disturbed by people with their hands and their loud voices."

"Oh look! the people said, 'here are some baby snakes. They're very young. Their mother has left them but that's dreadful!'"

"Then they thought we'd be nice in the zoo. They thought that others might enjoy seeing us and hearing the story of our short but very sweet outside lives."

"So they presented us to the zoo, or in other words they made presents of us."

"But weren't they silly to think that Mother was dreadful to leave us?"

"They were," answered the other snakes.

"Mother had other things to go, and the little snakes who had been doing the talking."

"Of course," the other snakes answered.

"And we were quite happy under that stone," said the little snakes. "We weren't a bit lonely or homesick or whatever it was we should have been."

"And they seem to think," one snake continued, "that their ways are the only sensible and right ways for everyone and everything."

"Very silly," hissed the little snakes.

"Very silly," hissed all the other snakes in the zoo."

A Meeting Point.

"A train leaves Chicago," supposed the teacher, "traveling 40 miles an hour. It is followed 20 minutes later by a train traveling 50 miles an hour. At what point will the second run into the first?"

The class seemed at a loss—that is, all except Willie Brown.

"Willie!" called the teacher.

"At the hind end of the hind engine," answered Willie.

The Gates of Gladness

By GEORGE ELMER COBB

(Copyright, 1919, by The Western Newspaper Union)

It was the fondest hope of Frances Hastings that she would be able to change the gates of gloom—as she considered the portals to the fenced-in little red country schoolhouse at Apperth—into the gates of gladness. She had just arranged for board and lodging with a widow lady at the next-door settlement.

"You'll have your crosses, dear," Mrs. Foster declared, "and the principal one will be the Royston boys."

"Who are the Royston boys?" questioned Frances apprehensively.

"Four—Tom, Emerson, Ned, and John. Bob, twelve; Dick, ten. Did you know the large house just beyond the depot surrounded by fir trees?"

"Why, yes, I did," answered Frances, "and I noticed, too, a well-governed, probably leading young man at the gate."

"That is Mr. Noel Burton," replied her talkative landlady, "and he is the adopted father of those four young trouble-makers. I fancy they have about worn him out with their pranks. They lead a rebellion at the school about once a month and your predecessor gave up his task in despair. There are other scholars who are troublesome, but the Roystons are simply unmanageable."

"But does not Mr. Burton try to curb them?"

"He can't. About all he thinks about is his books, for he is a great student. The boys overrun him and he is too much occupied with what he calls a sense of duty to resist them. You see when his sister, a widow, died, he promised to be a father to the little orphans, and a close handful he has had."

All this rather discouraged Frances, but by the time the school opened she had gathered up complete information in the history and traits of all of the scholars and had decided upon a definite policy. She stood in the open doorway as the customary children trooped in. To each she extended a welcoming hand.

"I hope we are all going to be like a happy, helpful family this term," she said.

Jem Royston greeted ungraciously and slipped past the extended hand. Each of his brothers returned the greeting cheerily.

"Hi, Jim! late again! Jim always lately panted a girl at twelve, dashed longingly into the study room after the last stroke of the bell had sounded."

"Quite a Meyer List, is it not?" queried Frances kindly.

"Yes," and I have to help with the classes."

"I know all about it," interrupted Frances graciously, "and we are going to excuse you always, if you are a little behind time. You wouldn't run this way, though, and get all worn and flustered. Now, children!"

All hands fixed their eyes on the new teacher. Miss Hastings took from the book the mottled, discolored fool's cap her predecessor had used. She walked to the stove and thrust it out of view. Then she picked up the ruler on the desk and beckoned to the elder Royston lad.

"You are stout and strong, Jem," she spoke. "Won't you please break the ruler in two and throw it out of the window? We won't need that kind of thing any more, will we?" and Jem snatched up with hesitance at this compliment to his strength and snarled off in reducing the ruler to splinters.

A strange spell of calm brooded over the little schoolroom that morning. Jem Royston alone exhibited some restlessness. At recess Miss Hastings called him up to her desk.

"You like to be outside, Jem, do you not?" she inquired.

"Should say I do! But if I had my way I'd be in the woods half the time."

"That is a good trait. It shows that you must love nature, and the birds, and the flowers. I have an errand for you to do, if you will be so kind. It is to go down to the general store and get some crayons for blackboard service. You needn't come back here till afternoon school."

It was a strenuous week for the little, though at times fearsome teacher, diplomat, but at its end she burst in upon Mrs. Foster with a radiant face.

"Oh, I am so happy!" she cried. "These Royston boys have become my latest loyal champions."

"And Mr. Burton was over here an hour ago," said Mrs. Foster, "wondering what new mischief the lads were brewing for they had changed so in a week he had not suspected."

Mr. Burton told the same story over again to Frances in person a week later, and he seemed to entertain so favorable and graceful an opinion of the charming, friendly school teacher, that his detestable was to stroll over to the little red schoolhouse and walk home with her.

The town is full of these dreadfully anxious to have you sign for another year," Mrs. Foster said to Frances at the end of the school term.

"I have changed my plans," stammered Frances in an embarrassed way.

"For the better, dear? You deserve it, and you know it. You managed those trouble-makers as their teacher, and as their adopted father you can certainly make perfect angels of them!"

Explaining Geysers.
In a word, the whole secret of the intermittent geyser lies in a subterranean reservoir, the contents of which are forced out by steam expansion every time it gets filled up. The Yellowstone park is a region which not so very long ago was fiercely volcanic. In that role it has ceased to play an alarming part, but locally the earth's crust is extremely thin. A very literal hell rages not far beneath the places frequented by tourists, and there is devised the heat that causes the outbursts of the geysers.

Her Shoes Hurt Her Feet.
As a general thing, when you see a woman hobbling along the street with an agonized expression it is a sign that she's got more foot than head.—Dallas News.

PRESBYTERIAN MEN WILL BANQUET TOMORROW EVE

During the period of the war when demands came from every quarter for all our effort and service the work of the church retarded. In fact that church gave itself to the task of the hour in our country's need. Its patriotism pointed its followers and the urgent demands and bade them serve in the Master's name. Its own program for aggressive service was laid by for the time.

Now the great war on the battlefield is victoriously won and the church of Jesus Christ of every great denomination is setting itself to take up and carry on the work which has suffered for the past three years.

Every denomination has seen the vision of the possibility of the church. Every one has felt certain reactions from the great world struggle. All are deeply American and see in the unrest and menace of radicalism an added responsibility. All believe that the gospel of Jesus Christ in application to life will solve many internal problems. So the church setting itself to the task is marshalling its forces, is finding out its individual tasks, is making every congregation feel a personal responsibility in the carrying out of a definite program of efficiency. It is a man's job, and the church is calling on her men. She calls on them just for reasonable service, but at all events an honest service. She stands to fulfill her mission in the world. To bring men and God face to face, so that men shall know His saving grace in Christ. To train her membership to be leaders of men. To preach and live for the principle and institutions our fathers have preserved and passed on to us. The home, family, state, must be preserved at any cost. The world waits on the church for leadership in the great world problems of the hour.

On Thursday evening at a dinner in the Presbyterian church, one of the leaders of the church will speak. Dr. Selden L. Haynes, for many years the successful pastor at Kingston, N. Y.—alive, awake, aggressive, leading in every war work, a powerful speaker, the church has called him to the bigger, broader task of its great forward New Era Movement. He comes not to give a great address, but to sit with the hundred and more men and talk about the things which God expects His men to do in His church. Dr. Haynes is a thoroughly Princeton man—graduating from the University and Theological Seminary and a personal friend of Dr. Reeve when in Princeton.

One of the most important meetings in relation to the welfare of the Presbyterian church, is to be held in Phillipsburg, December 5th. You owe it to your church to be present if possible. Go and get ideas and plans from successful pastors, on the best way of interesting your entire membership in an aggressive campaign of Christian work.

This is not a meeting devoted to speech making, but for the assigning of definite tasks to YOUR church.

You want to see the attendance of your church doubled, your membership greatly increased, your Sunday School made efficient. This is part of our task. Do you want to know what is expected of your church? Then come and see.

This is the first time the fifteen churches of this group in this end of the Presbytery have met to face their INDIVIDUAL obligations. You see the supreme importance of having all men in attendance. A supper will be served for 75 cents, at 7 o'clock. Dr. Selden Haynes, one of our most successful pastors, will meet with us. Each congregation should at least pay the transportation expenses of its representatives, for this is the church's work.

B. H. CONLEY, Secretary.

The position taken by the Fuel Administration, which is an arm of the federal government having the support of the whole government, that fourteen per cent. is the figure representing the increase in the cost of living as compared with the pre-war wage scale of the mine workers and that a general average wage increase of fourteen per cent will establish the pre-war status of the miner insofar as earnings relate to the cost of living, puts the mine workers to the choice of two alternatives and at the same time eliminates the operator's further negotiations with the miners. The fourteen per cent offer is based on statistics and might be called a mathematical determination of what is due the worker who produces the coal. At the same time it apparently represents that proportion of the operator's profits which Mr. Garfield believes the operator can spare to the miner without requiring from the consumer of coal a greater price than that set by the government. This point is disputed among the operators. Many declare that they cannot make a profit by paying all the increase themselves, but they are willing to make a try in the interests of taking care of the needs of the nation.

The government in carrying on its price war has set itself dead against any further increase in wages which would of necessity add to the cost of the product. That is why the maximum is placed at fourteen per cent in spite of the fact that an offer of twenty had been made. It amounts to government intervention and Mr. Palmer as the commanding general opposing high prices, on being assured that a larger increase than fourteen per cent would entail an increase in the cost of coal to the consumer, decreed that no bigger wage be offered than the operator could pay and keep within the government's selling cost. On first thought and to the uninitiated, it would appear that the operators have been making big profits, and they have, but they do not begin to approach the figures that are claimed. For instance, it is common to hear that coal is selling at $2.75 per ton. Perhaps a few cars of spot coal have been sold at this price. It is declared that at least one-third of the output of this district is contracted for at a price approximating $2.45. Coal at this price, therefore, does not yield a profit and the operator must depend on market sales for his profit, which the output coal keeps his mine in total operation.

In accepting the fourteen per cent offer the miner will be contributing

REVISION OF STATE CONSTITUTION IS TOPIC OF INTEREST

The Spauld administration plans to make the study of the Constitution of 1873 by the Commission of Twenty-five announced by the Governor one of the monumental achievements of the Delaware counties term and it is the plan to have the work of the body which will be called to meet in Harrisburg within a month or so to before the people the November following the inauguration of the Spauld successor. Two legislatures will be called upon to vote upon the proposition for revision or amendment before they are submitted to the electorate. Voters of Pennsylvania have voted changes to the Constitution in six elections, he'll in many years, the Legislature of 1919 having already submitted a couple of propositions as well as advancing other. The Constitution of 1873 is the basis on which Pennsylvania has been governed. The first was the document of 1776 adopted in Philadelphia, the second was adopted in Philadelphia in 1790 immediately following the ratification of the U. S. Constitution, and the third was adopted in 1873 at a convention held in Harrisburg, where it met in 1873 with John Sergeant as the principal president and the first president adopted in 1873.

TOYLAND--Among The Young Folks Happiest Recollections

The annual jollity of Toyland has begun—and we are in for a good old-fashioned Christmas. The ingenuity and the capacity of the toymakers has been taxed to the limit to satisfy Juvenile America.

Here are to be found representatives of almost everything in Toydom, from froggies to doggies—elephants large and elephants small, dollies short and dollies tall, engines that toot and guns that shoot, clowns that act like a funny loon, and cows that may have jumped over the moon.

You will laugh and laugh and never pause—for this is the place of Santa Claus.

SHOP EARLY

The afternoon hours are of course the very busiest hours of the day.

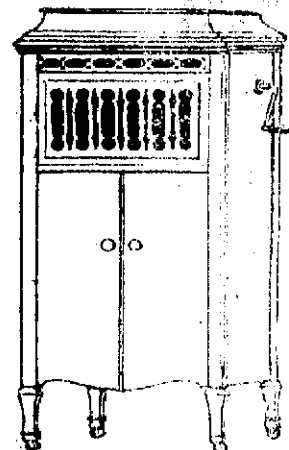

It is undoubtedly more comfortable and pleasurable to shop in the morning hours—for you will find the stocks in orderly display and our people able to give you their best service.

And in shopping in the morning you assist in lightening the unavoidable strain which all who serve you during the Christmas shopping period are under.

THANK YOU

Do Not Delay The Selection of That Xmas Phonograph

Although it is our aim to carry complete stocks, the experience of former years has amply demonstrated that greater satisfaction in the selection of phonographs can be secured prior to the Holiday Rush.

There is no doubt about it—there's going to be a shortage of talking machines from now until Christmas—which is going to cause a lot of folks to be sadly disappointed.

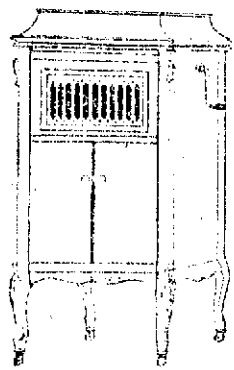

Music in the home on Christmas—no home is really in the spirit of things without it. But this season you will have to buy yours early or you will be left.

You get exactly the model you want if you make your selection now.

Don't forget you can buy these on the easy payment plan.

These Pathe Phonographs at $45.00 to $250.00 are remarkable values—the finest phonographs on the market at popular prices—they play all records and play them well. Come in and hear them.

RISHELL PHONOGRAPHS—in all sizes and finishes, Mahogany, Walnut or Oak. $75.00 to $225.00

How About Nuts?

BY ADELIA BELLE BEARD
Get your baskets or bags and let us go on the trail for nuts, now is the time. Better bring your belt-axe or a hatchet to cut a stout stick for beating the trees.

The air is clear and frosty, there is a thrill, too. A good sized thrill always goes with the first nutting of the season. With baskets and bags full to the brim, we will march home again in triumph, but not before we have sampled our loads of toothsome wild meats and tested their sweetness. Is it fun?

But stop a minute. Here is a new thought. There is something more than fun connected with nuts. To know the edible things that grow wild is an important part of Woodcraft, as you would soon discover if you were lost in the wild country with nothing to eat but what you could find growing there.

Nuts are the most nourishing of all wild foods. You could live a long while on nuts. They take the place of meat for a time and satisfy your appetite while strengthening your body, but some of them are rather rich food. Our richest American nut is the acorn.

Do you know it, have you ever tasted it? The Butternut grows plentifully in Ohio and farther south. It has a wild flavor which is not liked by every one and it is quite oily. Its shell is rough like the Walnut, but longer, not round, and the outer husk is green and sticky. When you pound it the juice stains your hands brown.

The small, three sided hickory nut has a most delicate flavor. It takes a good many of these to satisfy a hearty appetite. Between the Butternut and the hickory, the largest and smallest of our native wild nuts are the Walnut, Hickory-nut, Chestnut, Hazel-nut and Chinquapin. The Chinquapin grows only in the south.

ADVENTURES THAT MADE AN AMERICAN

Hunting Eye Earns First Dollar

BY E. S. ALEXANDER

"See that snake?" asked the farmer at whose well Hunting Eye had stopped for a drink. "He's a big dangerous one and I'd like to have him killed, but if I throw at him, I'll miss him and he will get away."

The Indian boy had often helped Swiftfoot hunt them with stones among the moss and leaves of the Great North Woods. He took a round stone and threw it at the big black snake sunning itself on the cement walk.

"Good," yelled the farmer. "You've snake his back. That is worth some money to me. Here is a dollar."

"That is a dollar?" asked Hunting

Eye. He must have some thing by which they can measure the value of a dollar so that they may buy and sell and exchange things quickly and easily. Among your people this measure is called a wampum and it is made of beads of white, yellow, red, blue and black. A wampum is a small piece of shell which has been drilled through the middle and strung on a cord.

The Government makes these beads and sells them for one cent each. No one but the Government is allowed to make them. If everybody were allowed to make money, there would be a thousand different kinds of money and no one would know the value of any.

So the Government makes money according to a law which says that a certain number of beads shall make a dollar. It is a law which all the people of the same kind of land must obey.

Now you know why the Government makes money. It is a law which all the people of the same kind of land must obey.

To the Citizens of This Town

You carry great responsibilities. In your hands are placed the lives of our children. If a fire should start in any schoolhouse two things may happen.

The building may be burned to the ground, and you know the building itself and its equipment could not be replaced today at many times the price it cost.

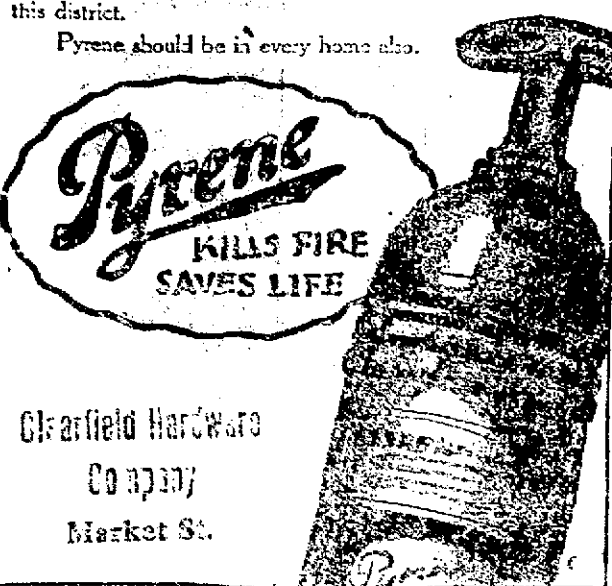

But that is unimportant compared to the possibility of a panic and loss of life among the children.

Every school building should be equipped with Pyrene Fire Extinguishers, and the use of Pyrene Fire Extinguishers should be taught in every school fire drill.

A Pyrene Fire Extinguisher will put out any small fire before it can gain headway. It is so light and easy that any woman or young child can use it. With a Pyrene handy fire can be put out before there is a chance for a panic.

Let us show you how many Pyrene Fire Extinguishers should be in each schoolhouse in this district.

Pyrene should be in every home also.

GOOD ROADS

KEEP EARTH ROADS IN SHAPE

Engineer of Wisconsin Highway Commission Tells Benefits of Patrol System of Maintenance.

Earth roads will be in existence over wide areas for many years to come, notwithstanding the rapid extension of "permanent" road beds of different materials.

Mr. F. Sergeant, a division engineer of the Wisconsin highway commission, writes:

"After a season's experience with the patrol system of maintenance in division No. 7, where we have practically all earth roads, I am more than ever convinced that this type of road can be fairly well maintained by this system, even where subject to considerable heavy motor traffic.

"A patrol section should not be more than six or seven miles in length and should be taken care of by one man with team. This man should be held responsible for the condition of his section at all times and should be required to devote all of his time to the work.

"The patrolman must have a good team, and the wagon box equipped with a dump bottom. The country should furnish a light two-horse blade grader, road plane, plow, scraper and necessary small tools, such as shovel, pick, bar, brush, scythe, rake, etc.

"In spite of all the claims made for the road drag as a maintenance tool, we find the light blade grader or the road plane far superior to it, and we advocate the use of these tools entirely for road maintenance. We find that a road drag having no bearing except on the blade, has a tendency to gouge out the material in soft spots making them still deeper, and giving the road a bad, wavy surface, while the blade grader or the road plane, having a long wheel base or bearing surface cuts only on the high spots and distributes the material in low places, building them up and giving the road a nice, smooth, driving surface. A blade grader should be so constructed that one man can drive the team and make all adjustments necessary while the machine is moving, as only one man is required on this work.

"An earth road with low crown and badly galled shoulders cannot be properly maintained by the patrolman, but should be first trimmed up with a heavier outfit, cutting off and removing heavy sods, properly heaping up the crown, filling low places and opening up drainage.

"The blade grader should not be used on earth roads when they are sloppy, but should be used as soon as the material is dry enough to roll nicely on the blade, and pick into the ruts and depressions. And no great amount of material should be moved at one time; a quarter or half inch cut is sufficient for the best results, furnishing all the material that the blade can distribute evenly. Under ordinary weather

er conditions the material is in a fair condition to work with the grader for about three days after a rain, giving ample time for three full rounds of the section which should leave even a badly rutted road in fairly good condition. Be sure to always make the first round trip on the center of the road.

"Six inches of crown to a 24-foot driving surface is sufficient. Care should be taken that the roadbed is nicely rounded, and not dragged to a peak in the center or a large ridge of loose earth left there."

Vast British Empire.

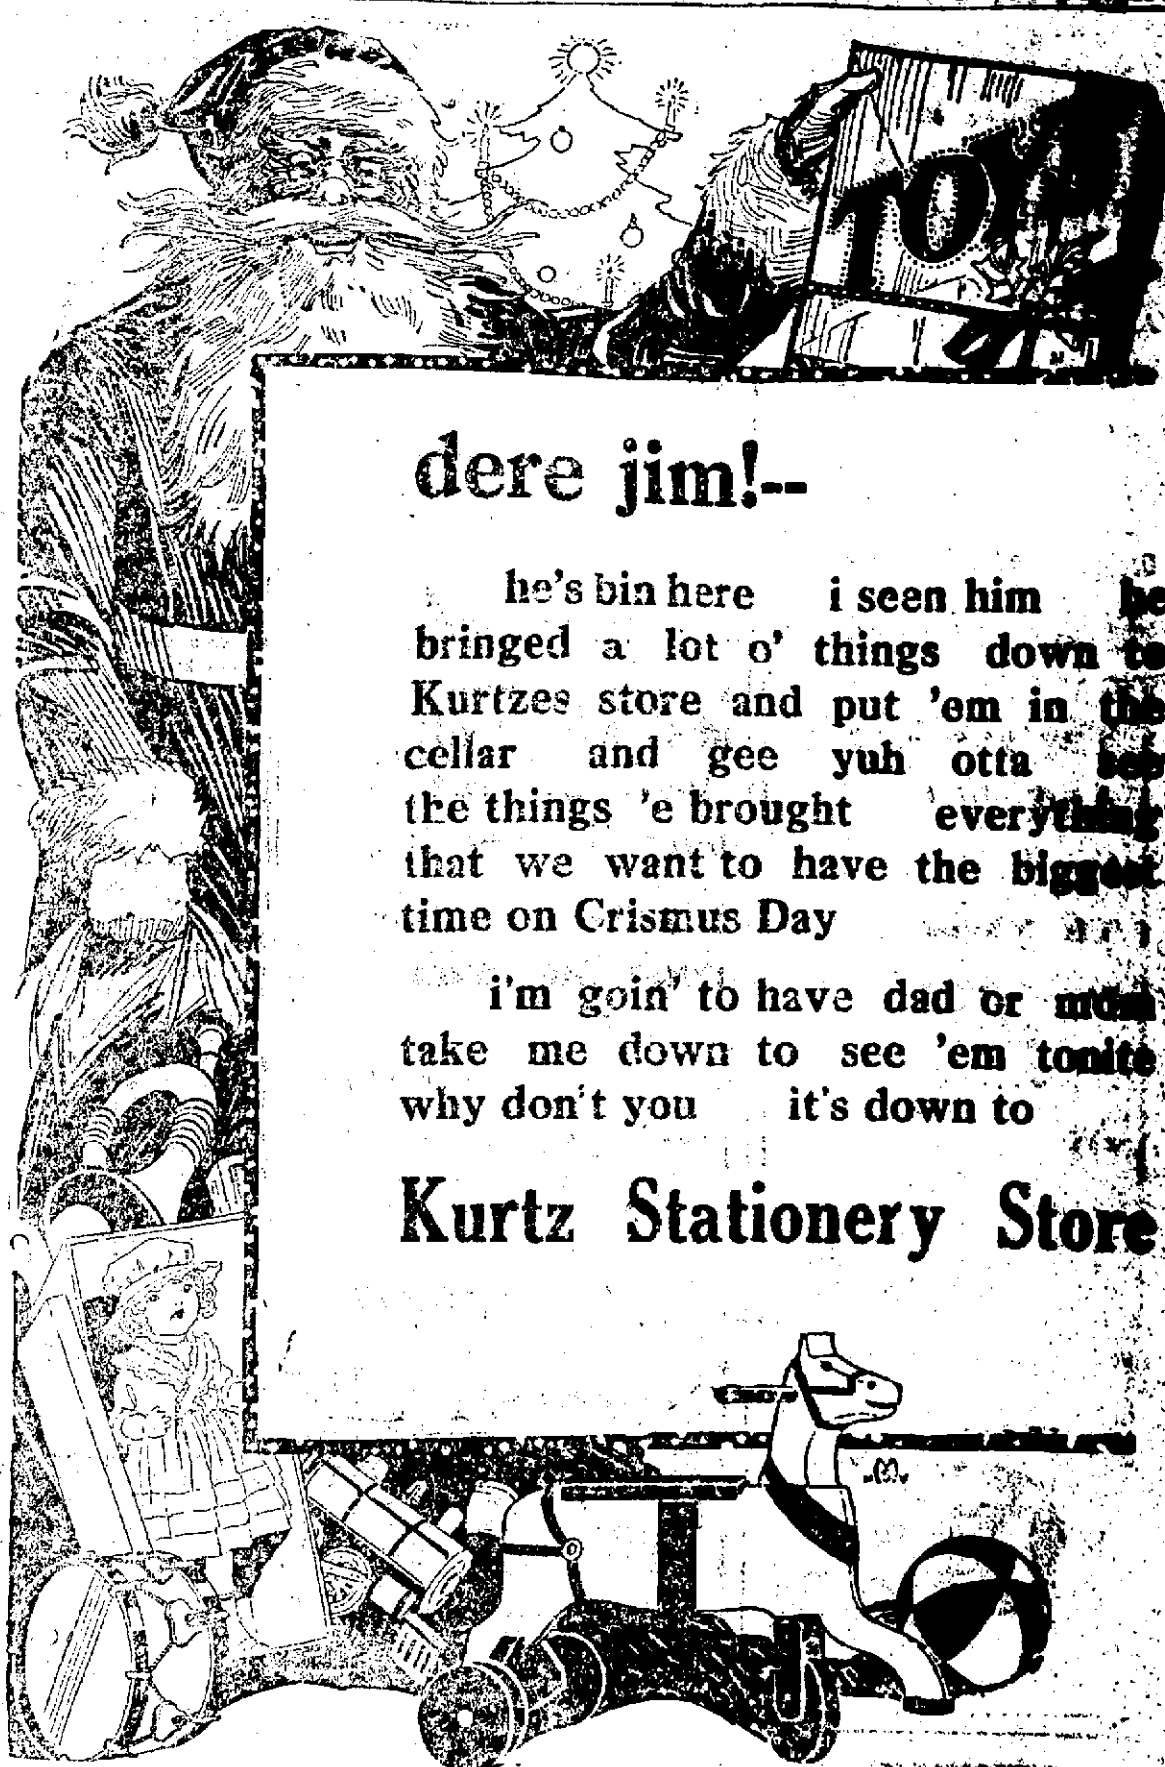

Including all her possessions, the British empire has the largest territory. It had at the beginning of the war a total area of 13,122,712 square miles, of which 12,512 are in Europe, 2,187,530 in Asia, 3,018,245 in North America, 8,009 in Central America, 12,300 in the West Indies, 97,800 in South America and 3,214,635 in Australasia.

The Works of Peace.

There remains to us a great duty of defense and preservation; and there is open to us also a noble pursuit, to which the spirit of the times strongly invites us. Let us advance the arts of peace and the works of peace. Let us develop the resources of our land, call forth its powers, build up its institutions, promote all its great interests, and see whether we, also, in our day and generation, may not perform something worthy to be remembered.

Sage Tea keeps
Your Hair Dark

It's Grandmother's recipe to bring color, youthfulness and lustre—Everybody is using it again.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

WILLIAM CARLISLE LAUGHING BANDIT FINALLY CAPTURED

DOUGLAS, Wyo., Dec 2—William
Carlisle, the "laughing bandit" is a
prisoner in the Douglas jail tonight.
He was captured by a posse of deputy sheriffs late today. The bandit surrendered without a fight, after
being cornered.

Carlisle escaped three weeks ago
from the state penitentiary at Raw-
lins, where he was serving a long time
for train robbing. He left the prison concealed in a laundry basket. Two days later he held up a limited train,
marched through the coaches robbing
passengers and escaped with a few hundred dollars. Special deputies sent out to hunt him were on the
train at the time.

After the train robbery, Carlisle
walked boldly into the telegraph office and sent a telegram to the railroad officials, telling them of the robbery and his escape. Later other messages signed by Carlisle were sent
to the railroad officials and newspapers from different parts of the country.

The posse came upon Carlisle in a
ranch house last night but he escape

JOINT RESOLUTION DECLARING WAR IS OVER CO-SIDERED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2—The surprise manifested by senators, today
over the failure of the President to mention the peace treaty in his message to Congress, gave way to action
when Senator Lodge, chairman of the Foreign Relations committee, conferred with other members of that body,
and later announced that the committee would hold a meeting Thursday.

At that time it is expected that
the committee will report out a joint resolution declaring the war to be a n end.

Republican senators today discus-
ed this proposal with House leaders,
and the upshot of their conference
was the decision to push the resolution with all haste. Senator Moses
of New Hampshire, talked the matter over with Representative Campbell
of Kansas, chairman of the house
committee on rules, and it is believed
the House will vote in favor of such
a resolution.

Until Senator Lodge and his colleagues decided to push the joint resolution the treaty situation was one
of stagnation and mystery.

Man Responsible for Progress

The responsible man admits himself to the world, the amusements one person, in trying to adapt the world to himself. Therefore, all progress is made on the man's own terms. Perhaps this is the most sane thing that can be said.

Brass Most Useful Alloy.

Brass is perhaps the best known and most useful alloy. It is formed by fusing together copper and zinc. Different proportions of these metals produce alloys possessing marked distinctive properties. The proportions
of the different ingredients are seldom precisely alike; these depend upon the requirements of various uses for which
the alloys are intended. Peculiar qualities of the constituent metals also exercise influence on the results.

If Kidneys Act Bad Take Salts

Says Backache is a sign you have
been eating too much meat,
which forms uric acid.

When you wake up with backache
and dull misery in the kidney region
it generally means you have been eating too much meat says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in
their effort to filter it from the blood
and they become sort of paralyzed and lorgy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve
them, like you relieve your bowels,
removing all the body's urinous waste
else you backache sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sour, tongue
is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, can-nels often get sore, water-colds, and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad
Salts, take a tablespoonful in a glass
of water before breakfast for a few
days and your kidneys will then act
fine. This famous salts is made from
the acid of grapes and lemon juice,
combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no
longer irritates, thus ending bladder
weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful
effervescent lithia-water drink.
